V	Chairperson’s Report	Cory Baker of Remedy LLC appeared before the Board to provide an overview of the company’s proposed prescription delivery service and to seek the Board’s input regarding its policies and procedures. C. Baker explained that Remedy LLC intends to transport prescriptions and over-the-counter products directly from pharmacies to patients while operating independently from pharmacies and serving as an advocate for patients who require assistance obtaining their medications. The service has been under development for several years, and C.	GBEP	0749	Noted

Item	Discussion	Responsible Party	Reporting Timeframe	Status
	Baker previously submitted policies and procedures to the Board, with the most recent version dating back to approximately 2021. C. Baker stated that an updated set of policies and procedures had been drafted following discussions with MedRed and E. Eva, but the updated document had not yet been resubmitted because C. Baker wanted to obtain the Board's input before finalizing and submitting it. C. Baker further explained that Remedy LLC would require procedures similar to those used when patients obtain medications directly from a pharmacy, including verification of identification, signatures, and protection of patient privacy. Although Remedy LLC would not technically operate under HIPAA as a covered entity, the company intends to follow standards comparable to HIPAA requirements in order to protect patients' personal health information. Patients would contact Remedy LLC to schedule deliveries, which are currently planned to be provided at a cost of $15 per delivery and within a designated delivery timeframe. C. Baker noted that once a prescription is picked up from the pharmacy, it must be delivered to the intended patient and cannot simply be returned to the pharmacy. To address this concern, Remedy LLC has established procedures requiring the company to contact the prescription service approximately one hour before picking up a medication to confirm that the prescription is ready and that delivery can be completed. C. Baker explained that the service was developed in part in response to observing that many patients, particularly in areas where C. Baker works, do not consistently pick up their medications. The proposed service was described as potentially beneficial to pharmacists by reducing unclaimed prescriptions, waste, and reversed insurance claims, while also supporting medication adherence and improved health outcomes for patients. C. Baker also stated that efforts were being explored to collaborate with Medicaid and senior citizen services to establish a contract, referral arrangement, or other means of making the service more accessible to patients who may benefit from prescription delivery. C. Baker acknowledged that Remedy LLC is a new and unfamiliar service and that gaining the public's trust would be an important aspect of its implementation, particularly because patients would need to feel confident entrusting the company with their medications. A. Mariano raised concerns regarding the handling and storage of prescriptions that cannot be delivered after being picked up from a pharmacy. It was clarified that Remedy LLC would not store medications at a separate facility and that, once prescriptions are collected from the pharmacy, they would remain in a temperature-controlled cooler within the delivery vehicle until delivery. C. Baker explained that, upon registration, each client would designate three

	alternate individuals who could receive the medication if the intended recipient was unavailable at the time of delivery. A. Mariano emphasized that appropriate medication storage is critical to patient safety and questioned whether the ultimate responsibility and potential liability for a prescription would remain with the dispensing pharmacy or transfer to the third-party delivery service once the medication leaves the pharmacy. Concerns were also raised regarding the potential for liability if a medication were lost, mishandled, or tampered with during transportation. A. Mariano further emphasized the importance of conducting appropriate due diligence on Remedy LLC employees, including consideration of background checks and other safeguards, given that employees would have access to patients' medications and personal information. C. Baker clarified that Remedy LLC would assume responsibility for the medication once the company signed the release and accepted the prescription from the pharmacy, as the company would be acting as the patient's authorized agent. C. Baker explained that the pharmacy would receive authorization from the patient permitting Remedy LLC to obtain the prescription on the patient's behalf and, accordingly, the pharmacy would not retain responsibility for the medication after its authorized release to Remedy LLC. Regarding medication security, C. Baker stated that tamper-resistant seals would be provided for use with prescriptions so that any potential interference with the medication could be identified. C. Baker also explained that medications requiring temperature control would be transported in a cooler with ice packs using procedures comparable to those used by pharmaceutical distributors for refrigerated products and would remain appropriately stored until delivery. A. Mariano additionally raised concerns regarding the possibility of prescriptions being delivered to the wrong individual due to identification errors or inadequate verification procedures. It was noted that such an error could result in the unintended recipient receiving another patient's medication and potentially exposing confidential health information. A. Mariano emphasized that this type of incident could create significant patient-safety and privacy concerns and reiterated the importance of establishing clear procedures to prevent misidentification and to appropriately address any incident should one occur. A. Mariano suggested that guidance or procedures be developed for pharmacies and the delivery service to ensure that responsibilities and appropriate actions are clearly established if Remedy LLC proceeds with the proposed prescription delivery service. E. Kwon asked whether the designated alternate recipients would be permitted to receive prescriptions at locations other than the patient’s residence. C. Baker clarified that deliveries would be restricted to residential addresses and that any authorized alternate recipient would be required to be present at the registered residential address. C. Baker explained that the patient registration form would include three designated alternate recipients along with their contact information, and Remedy LLC would verify the identity and information of the individual receiving the medication against the information provided by the patient. E. Kwon also inquired about situations in which a medication requires patient counseling. C. Baker stated that counseling would be referred to the pharmacist, who would be responsible for providing the necessary counseling to the patient. E. Kwon further asked whether Remedy LLC intended to restrict the types of medications it would deliver, including controlled substances. (Audio stopped from 16:55-18:22) M. Gabriel asked whether the policy and procedures document contained page numbers and recommended several revisions to improve its clarity and completeness. M. Gabriel recommended that the policy expressly identify the delivery location as a “residential address” and include the patient authorization form as part of the documentation. A. Mariano further recommended that the authorization form contain a provision clearly stating that, once Remedy LLC obtains the medication from the pharmacy on the patient’s behalf, Remedy LLC assumes full responsibility and control over the prescription. The Board also recommended that the authorization form incorporate the responsibilities and liabilities outlined in Remedy LLC’s policies, including the patient’s acknowledgment that Remedy LLC would coordinate with the pharmacy to have prescriptions prepared and that Remedy LLC would assume responsibility for the delivery order. It was also suggested that the applicable privacy agreement and related privacy requirements be incorporated into the authorization documentation provided to customers. C. Baker then asked the Board to clarify the scope of activities permitted in the role of a prescription delivery service as compared with the practice of pharmacy, particularly regarding whether prescriptions could be consolidated so that multiple prescriptions scheduled within a particular period could be picked up and delivered together. The Board explained that prescription consolidation may be an available function through pharmacy software, allowing multiple prescriptions to be prepared for a single pickup, although the specific process may vary among pharmacies and would require coordination with the individual pharmacy. C. Baker indicated that this appeared feasible.

Item	Discussion	Responsible Party	Reporting Timeframe	Status
	C. Baker also inquired whether Remedy LLC would be permitted to access patients' electronic medical records or other health-record software in order to verify information associated with prescriptions. A. Mariano expressed concern that accessing such systems could exceed the authority granted through the patient authorization and could constitute an activity within the practice of pharmacy, even if Remedy LLC had authorization to access certain confidential patient information. The Board agreed that access to electronic medical records or similar systems would likely be inappropriate for Remedy LLC and raised concerns that such access could extend beyond the permissible scope of a third-party prescription delivery service. A. Mariano noted that, as the Board is currently reviewing and revising its rules and regulations, it may be appropriate to consider establishing regulations governing prescription delivery services in the future. The Board recognized that prescription delivery could provide a valuable service, particularly for patients who lack reliable transportation, and could support medication adherence by improving patients' ability to obtain their prescriptions. The Board discussed the documentation and delivery procedures that Remedy LLC would implement, including the use of physical signatures and documentation of prescription receipt. It was also suggested that photographs could be taken upon receipt of shipments to document the condition in which medications were received and provide an additional record of the delivery process. The Board inquired whether Remedy LLC would use GPS tracking or a dedicated application to monitor deliveries and transportation activities. C. Baker indicated that no specific delivery-tracking system had been established at that time, although navigation technology would be used to locate delivery destinations. The Board also inquired about Remedy LLC's staffing structure, including whether C. Baker would initially be the sole employee. A. Mariano asked about the procedures that would apply if a medication were lost, misplaced, damaged, or stolen while in Remedy LLC's possession. C. Baker explained that an incident report would be completed for any such occurrence and that the company's insurance would be involved in addressing the loss. C. Baker further indicated that Remedy LLC would be responsible for replacing the affected medication when necessary. A. Mariano clarified that, depending on the patient's insurance status and the circumstances of the replacement, the patient could potentially be required to pay the full cost of the replacement prescription. C. Baker acknowledged this concern and stated that Remedy LLC's insurance coverage would be utilized to address losses, damages, theft, or other issues involving prescriptions while under the company's responsibility.

Item	Discussion	Responsible Party	Reporting Timeframe	Status
	The Board asked whether the dispensing pharmacy would be notified when a patient requests prescription delivery through Remedy LLC. C. Baker explained that the patient would first contact the pharmacy to notify the pharmacy that Remedy LLC would be picking up the prescription on the patient's behalf and would provide the required authorization. C. Baker confirmed that Remedy LLC would also provide the patient's authorization documentation to the pharmacy before obtaining the prescription. Remedy LLC would maintain an individual file for each customer containing the signed authorization, privacy documentation, and other required records. C. Baker stated that these records would be securely maintained in locked files to protect confidential patient information and would be organized using identifying numbers and other tracking information. E. Kwon inquired about where Remedy LLC's customer records would be maintained. C. Baker stated that a home office was available but explained that the records were intended to be maintained in a secure, lockable storage container designed to protect the files from unauthorized access. C. Baker indicated that the storage container would remain locked and secured through a combination mechanism. The Board requested that C. Baker provide the remaining requested documentation and revisions, including revisions to the authorization form, for further review. The Board indicated that many of its questions had been addressed during the discussion but requested that the outstanding materials be submitted before proceeding further. C. Baker also asked whether the Board could provide a letter or other written documentation acknowledging the discussion and the status of Remedy LLC's proposed delivery service, particularly for presentation to government offices or other entities. A. Mariano clarified that the Board should avoid characterizing the service as "approved," since the Board does not license Remedy LLC as a delivery service, but indicated that the Board could potentially provide documentation recognizing the matter as having been presented and discussed at the meeting. When asked about the anticipated start date for the service, C. Baker stated that implementation had originally been planned for the previous month but had been delayed while several issues were being addressed. C. Baker explained that the company intended to wait until after the Board meeting and its consideration of the outstanding concerns before commencing operations and hoped to begin as soon as reasonably possible once the necessary matters were resolved. The Board advised C. Baker to submit the requested revisions and supporting materials by email for further review and indicated that additional comments or guidance could be provided

	as the materials were evaluated. The Board thanked C. Baker for addressing its questions and participating in the discussion. M. Gabriel informed she needed to leave the meeting shortly and that A. Eustaquio would assume responsibility for the meeting; however, M. Gabriel proceeded to complete the Chairperson's Report. An update was provided regarding recent meetings conducted with representatives of the FDA. The Board had participated in multiple FDA briefing meetings and was informed that FDA representatives planned to return for another meeting in September, tentatively on September 23 or 24, with the specific time to be provided at a later date. Board members were invited to attend the upcoming meeting. M. Gabriel reported that the recent FDA discussions included meetings with several FDA representatives, including Dr. K. Turner, G. Chu, D. Lau, C. Avon, B. Aguilera, Dr. C. Chen, and representatives identified as CSO. The discussions generally focused on determining the Board's needs and identifying ways in which the FDA could provide support to Guam. The FDA requested information regarding the Board's needs assessment, the reporting of adverse events, the Board's organizational structure, gaps in medication safety oversight, and the detection of counterfeit or fraudulent medications. The discussions also addressed what organizational structure would be most appropriate for ensuring medication safety and effective oversight of medications on Guam. The Board discussed the possibility of establishing an information-sharing agreement with the FDA through FDA Form 20.88, which would provide a mechanism for the Board and the FDA to exchange relevant information and improve cooperation and transparency. FDA representatives also raised concerns regarding vulnerabilities associated with the importation of medications into Guam, including who is responsible for inspecting medications upon arrival, the inspection of medications received through the mail, the handling of veterinary medications, and the Board's existing inspection processes and procedures. The Board discussed these areas as potential opportunities for FDA assistance in strengthening safeguards and checks and balances related to imported medications. Medication literacy and public outreach were also discussed, including the possibility of conducting public education initiatives in collaboration with the FDA. The Board expressed interest in educating the public about counterfeit medications, active pharmaceutical ingredients, and medications that may be improperly marketed or distributed within the community. The FDA also asked whether Guam has an established reporting mechanism

	through which members of the public can report suspected counterfeit medications. The Board discussed the possibility of creating or expanding a reporting mechanism through its website that would allow patients, healthcare providers, and other members of the public to report suspected fraudulent medications, adverse events, or other medication-related concerns, thereby providing the Board with additional information for review and follow-up. M. Gabriel further reported that the FDA discussions addressed compliance with the Drug Supply Chain Security Act and vendor verification. The FDA sought information regarding how medications obtained from vendors are verified, particularly with respect to identifying counterfeit products before they reach the public. The Board acknowledged that its current verification process is primarily downstream, meaning that counterfeit products may not be identified until they reach a pharmacy, rather than being routinely verified earlier in the supply chain at the wholesaler or vendor level. The FDA indicated that it was considering ways to assist the Board in strengthening upstream supply-chain oversight. The Board also discussed its enforcement capacity and inspector staffing limitations. It was noted that the Board consists of five members who serve largely in a volunteer capacity, receiving a daily stipend of $50, while significant additional work, including inspection activities, is performed without dedicated paid positions. These staffing limitations were identified as an area in which additional resources or assistance could improve the Board's regulatory and enforcement capabilities. M. Gabriel then discussed FDA guidance concerning the emergency loan or transfer of medications between pharmacies. The issue had arisen after Saipan CHCC sought to borrow non-controlled medications from GRMC and questions arose regarding whether the medications could be sent by mail when a courier was unavailable. Following discussions with an FDA representative, the Board received a two-page information sheet outlining the applicable regulatory provisions concerning emergency medication loans and transfers between pharmacies across jurisdictions. The FDA guidance indicated that such transfers may be permissible, particularly when conducted to address an emergency, and that a pharmacy generally would not be considered a wholesaler when the quantity transferred does not exceed approximately five percent of its dosage units, subject to the applicable requirements. The Board discussed whether an emergency declaration was required before pharmacies could transfer medications to one another. It was clarified that an emergency may exist based on the specific circumstances involving a patient who requires medication, even if there is no broader governmental emergency declaration. The Board emphasized that the emergency should be associated with a specific patient need and appropriately documented by the pharmacies involved. The discussion further distinguished a general emergency, such as a typhoon declaration, from an individual patient-related emergency requiring an immediate medication transfer. The Board also discussed concerns regarding the use of mail for transferring medications between pharmacies, particularly because mailing medications could potentially be viewed as distribution. The FDA guidance was understood to allow certain emergency transfers between pharmacies located in different jurisdictions, provided the applicable requirements were satisfied. M. Gabriel indicated that the FDA guidance would be distributed to licensees, particularly hospital pharmacies that may encounter circumstances requiring emergency medication transfers. M. Gabriel also reported that the FDA discussions addressed counterfeit GLP-1 products and medications being sold outside licensed pharmacy establishments. Because such products may be distributed outside establishments or individuals regulated by the Board, the Board currently has limited or no direct licensing or enforcement authority over those activities. The Board discussed the need to address these regulatory gaps through collaboration with other agencies and regulatory boards that may have jurisdiction over the individuals or entities involved in the sale or distribution of such products. M. Gabriel reminded the Board that the needs assessment previously distributed by email on May 4, 2026, should be reviewed by the Board members. She indicated that the existing needs assessment appeared appropriate but encouraged members to review it and provide any additions or revisions before the upcoming FDA meeting, as the FDA representatives were using the needs assessment to determine how they could provide support to Guam and the Board. M. Gabriel also presented a suggestion from an FDA representative, identified as Chin, concerning alternative methods of conducting pharmacy inspections. It was suggested that inspections need not always be conducted entirely in person and that the Board could consider requiring pharmacies to submit controlled-substance ordering and dispensing reports for review. The Board could use these records as an additional auditing mechanism to evaluate controlled-substance activity and identify potential discrepancies, with in-person verification conducted when necessary. M. Gabriel noted that similar approaches are used in other jurisdictions, including California, and suggested that this could be considered as an additional inspection or audit method in Guam. M. Gabriel further noted that the Board already reviews continuing education compliance for pharmacists and technicians every other year as an auditing measure and could consider incorporating additional documentation-based audits into its inspection process. M. Gabriel discussed potential avenues for investigation and information sharing, including greater coordination among the Department of Environmental Health, the FDA, and other applicable agencies; the use of adverse-event reporting systems such as the FDA’s MedWatch; and the potential establishment of a local reporting mechanism. The Board also discussed the possibility of coordinating with customs and border-control authorities to strengthen oversight and reduce the risk of counterfeit medications entering Guam. M. Gabriel concluded the FDA portion of the report by indicating that the discussed materials and needs assessment would be distributed to Board members by email for review. Lastly, M. Gabriel reported receiving an inquiry from a physician regarding federal and local requirements governing Schedule II (C-II) controlled-substance prescriptions. The Chairperson explained that, under 21 CFR 1306.12, federal law permits a practitioner to issue multiple prescriptions for a C-II controlled substance authorizing up to a total of 90 days’ supply, provided the applicable conditions are met. Under this process, multiple prescriptions may be issued on the same date with specified future fill dates, and electronic prescribing and pharmacy systems may prevent a prescription from being filled before the designated date. However, M. Gabriel noted that Guam’s Controlled Substance Act imposes a more restrictive requirement under which a prescription expires seven days after the date it is written. Accordingly, even though the issuance of multiple prescriptions for up to a 90-day supply may be permissible under federal law, Guam’s seven-day expiration requirement must be followed. M. Gabriel further raised the question of what information, if any, may be verbally changed or corrected on a C-II prescription. M. Gabriel reported contacting the DEA for clarification but noted that no specific provision had been identified in Guam law addressing which changes may be made verbally to a C-II prescription. She also noted that a 2022 DEA notice indicated that such matters are generally deferred to applicable state or territorial law. The Board therefore discussed the need to review the issue and determine appropriate guidance for pharmacists and prescribers. A. Mariano expressed concern that making changes to certain information on a C-II prescription could be considered an alteration or forgery of the prescription and recommended that prescribers be responsible for entering all required information. The Board discussed circumstances in which information may be missing or unclear and indicated that, where necessary, pharmacists or technicians should contact the prescriber to obtain or clarify the required information rather than independently altering the prescription. The Board also discussed electronic prescriptions and the handling of patient address information, including circumstances in which pharmacies or distributors may require a patient’s physical address rather than an email address. The Board considered whether certain address information could be entered or corrected within the electronic system when processing a C-II prescription, but recognized that additional review was necessary to determine what changes are permissible. M. Gabriel concluded that the Board could not provide a definitive answer regarding permissible changes to C-II prescriptions during the meeting and that the matter should be researched and discussed further at a subsequent meeting. M. Gabriel then concluded the Chairperson’s Report and transferred the meeting to A. Eustaquio, who was directed to proceed with the agenda.

		1. CVS/caremark OR CF #11506 (NR-PCY045) The Board discussed the status of a previously requested report concerning controlled-substance refills. It was noted that the report had been provided on April 26, following the prior appearance and discussion of the matter. At the previous meeting, the Board had agreed to seek an opinion from the Office of the Attorney General regarding how to proceed with the issue of controlled-substance refilling. As no response with information from the Attorney General’s Office had been received or identified, the Board agreed that the matter should remain tabled. Motion to Table Pending Opinion from AGs Office: A. Australian Simmons makes NBA comeback with Kings: reports

AFP

Australian Ben Simmons, who missed last season with nagging back injuries, has agreed on a one-year NBA comeback deal with the Sacramento Kings, according to multiple reports on Friday.

The 30-year-old point guard was the top pick in the 2016 draft by Philadelphia but missed the 2016-17 campaign with a broken right foot only to earn the 2018 NBA Rookie of the Year award.

Simmons last played in the NBA in early 2025 as a reserve with the Los Angeles Clippers but ESPN and

The Athletic reported he has come to terms on a deal worth $3.5 million with the Kings, who were reportedly impressed with his performance at a workout this week.

He will likely serve as a backup for rookie guard Darius Acuff, the seventh pick in last June's draft, as well as a possible fill-in at other roster positions.

Simmons averaged 13.1 points, 7.4 rebounds and 7.2 assists a game over eight NBA seasons, producing his best numbers with the 76ers before sitting out the 2021-22 campaign then being traded to Brooklyn, where he struggled and was waived in 2025 before finishing the season with the Clippers.

Simmons boosted interest from clubs last month after a strong training camp with the Australian national team.

The Kings were 22-60 last season and dropped guards DeMar DeRozan and Russell Westbrook in the off-season.

Sacramento have reached the playoffs only once since 2006, suffering a first-round loss to Golden State in 2023.

The Kings last won a playoff series in 2004 and the franchise won its lone NBA title in 1951 as the Rochester Royals, their 75 years since reaching the NBA Finals a dubious league record.

for fights, and just training for the love of the game ... still wasn't sure I wanted to fight.

"So I made a deal with myself: train consistently for three months, then make the decision. About two months in, WCK offered me a fight for the IKKC Lightweight Championship. I took it as a sign from God that maybe I wasn't done yet."

Gogo is definitely not done, especially after an impressive victory Sunday that gave him his fourth combative title (3 muay thai/1 MMA).

"For this camp, I decided to train at Victory MMA. I'd dropped in plenty of times over the years, but these last five months I became a real part of the team. There's so much talent in that room—Muay Thai, MMA, wrestling, jiu-jitsu—and every day I was surrounded by young, hungry guys trying to get better. Naturally, I had to get better too.

"Aaron Peet and Mike Lemaire knew when to push me and when to pull me back. In the past, I'd train myself into the ground. This camp was different. More than anything, I wanted to find out what a sober Joe Gogo looked like. I owed it to myself. Not someone who cleaned himself up a week or two before a fight. I wanted to know what I could become when my mind was clear, my body could actually recover, and I was fully committed to the process.

"It's been years since I felt this prepared. And when fight night finally came, I felt at peace. No pressure to prove anything. No worrying about sponsors, social media, or representing anything other than myself. I got to walk into that ring and just be Joe Gogo."

The new version of Joe Gogo, the sober version of Joe Gogo has proven to be even better with a new belt wrapped around his shoulder.

Islanders defense

JFK's defense pitched a shutout and came up with two big stops.

Tiyan's biggest threat came in the opening quarter when they had a 1st-and-goal opportunity at the JFK 5-yard line. Later in the game, they'd move in within JFK's 20-yard territory.

On both instances, the Islanders defense stepped up with huge stops.

"Hats off to our defense. They have always been the strength of our team," coach Aguon added.

Noah Cruz led the JFK defense with seven tackles.

Next up for the Islanders are the Southern Dolphins next Friday at 7 p.m. at the GW Field. The Titans will go head on with the GW Geckos next Saturday at the GW Field a 7 p.m. as well.
